

Isn't it time

Ever-changing times? Absolutely. In fact most businesses have completely different requirements today than they had only five years ago. At Guilbert Ofrex we are continuously updating and fine-tuning our product range and customer services to meet today's ever-growing demands. This foresight has led to us becoming Europe's leading office products supplier.

you mapped out

And now, by utilising the very latest computer technology, we can offer you more than ever before! We can help you to establish a highly individualised purchasing programme that will save you time and money every step of the way... as well as eliminating many of the current headaches involved with budgeting, ordering and stock control.

a more cost effective

Office stationery and computer supplies will always be essential within any organisation and it makes sense that these items should be purchased as easily and cost effectively as possible. By taking full advantage of the Internet and other available computer links, we help you to achieve the most cost-saving, trouble-free purchasing solution for your business, however large or small.
